Mardi Gras Dance Tomorrow Night

"Pink Champagne and Silver Slippers" will be the theme of the Newman Club's seventh annual Mardi Gras Dance to be held tomorrow night at the Student Union Ballroom.

Dr. Charles W. Hackensmith of the Physical Education Department will reign as Rex of the Mardi Gras and at the same time will be celebrating his Silver Anniversary as a professor at the University. Each year the Rex is the most popular professor elected by the student body

The queen, who will be crowned by Dr. Hackensmith, will not be announced until the dance. Selection of the queen will be by popular voting and a panel of judges. Students voted for five candidates Wednesday, Thursday, and today until 4 p.m. The five finalists will then appear before a panel of three judges Saturday for the final selection. The five finalists will also be presented at the half of the Ky.-LSU basketball game.

Prizes for the boy and the girl having the best costume will again be given this year, Dick Lehman, chairman of the dance, stated. He asked that if possible the theme of the costumes be one of a circus.

The dance is to be informal or in costumes and 1:30 a.m. permission is being granted for the girls. Tickets will be a $3 a couple and may be bought at the door.

Queen candidates are Tippie Daniel, Helen Hoover, Jane Frost, Vickie Arrington, Charlotte Young, Wanda Cummins, Maxine Thompson, Dorothy Cohen, Jane Huebner, Eleanor Johnstone, Connie Golberg, Katherine Stafford, Jane E. Harris, Regina O'Brien, and Marcie

Carole Cunningham, Joan Blevins, Betty Miller, Margaret Fowler, Jane Brock, Tracy Walden, Jane Thornburg, Betty Whalin, Nancy Morris, Billie Pitzer, Martha Utterback, Ann Wiemann, Marcia Wilder, Shirley Ford, Audrey King, and Eleanor Kington.

The Rex, Dr. Hackensmith, served as head of the Physical Training Program at the University during World War II. He received his A.B. from the University of Illinois in 1930, his M.A. at UK in 1935, and his Ph.D. from Ohio State in 1948.

PRINCESS ILEANA

Princess

Her Royal Highness Ileana Princess of Romania, will speak at Memorial Coliseum tonight under the auspices of the Central Kentucky Community Concert and Lecture Series.

The Princess, forced into exile when the Communists took over her country, will relate the story of how her people lost their freedom, and what it means to live under the Soviet domination. On arriving here in the United States, she made her home in New Engattended school.

Daughter of the famous Queen Marie, the Princess has been an ardent participant in social work. She was the founder of the first school for Social Workers in Romania, and was also head of the Romanian YWCA and Girl Scouts. During World War II, she gave much of her time to the Red Cross and turned her home into a hospital.

Princess Ileana's book, "I Live Again", was published last winter by Rinehart, and excerpts from the work were serialized in the Ladies' Home Journal. She has spoken before large audiences in nearly every section of the United States.

The program will begin at 8:15 p.m. and students will be admitted on ID cards.

Rules Committee Tightens Holiday Absence Rules

The Rules Committee of the University Faculty has made a land where he six children have change in the regulations governing absences from classes before and after holidays.

> The change, passed on Monday of this week, reads "A student absent from the last session of any class before a holiday or the first sesion after a holiday shall have a penalty of one credit per class for graduation. Such absences shall be reported to the dean of the college in which the student is enrolled who, in turn, shall report to the registrar all penalties assessed. Only the dean of the college may waive this regulation for justifiable reasons. The registrar shall record all such penalties on the student's permanent record."

Heretofore, only absences on the day immediately before and the day directly after a holiday cost penalty hours. Now, however, the student must attend each class the

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 2

Doff your caps and bells; there will be no fun and games this lay. Today, with earnestness and sobriety, we make the second of our forays into social science. Today we take up the most basic of all the social sciences-sociology itself.

Sociology teaches us that man is a social animal. It is not his instincts or his heredity that determine his conduct; it is his environment. This fact is vividly borne out when one considers any of the several cases of children who were raised by wild animals. Take, for example, the dossier on Julio Sigafoos.

Julio, abandoned as an infant in a dark wood near Cleveland, was adopted by a pack of wild dogs and reared as one of their own. When Julio was found by a hunter at the age of twelve, the poor child was more canine than human. He ran on all fours, barked and growled, ate raw meat, lapped water with his tongue, and could neither speak nor understand one single word. In short, he was a complete product of his environment.

(Julio, incidentally, was more fortunate than most wild children. They never become truly humanized, but Julio was exceptional. Bit by bit, he began to talk and walk and eat and drink as people do. His long dormant mental processes, when awakened at last, turned out to be remarkably acute. In fact, he was so bright that he learned to read and write in a month, got through grammar school in five years and high school in two. And last June, as thousands of spectators, knowing Julio's tragic background, stood and cheered, he was graduated valedictorian from Cal Tech with a degree in astrophysics!

(Who can say to what towering heights this incredible boy would have risen had he not been killed the day after commencement while chasing a car?)

But I digress. To return to sociology, people tend to gather in groups-a tendency that began, as we all know, with the introduction of Philip Morris Cigarettes. What an aid to sociability they are! How benignly one looks upon his fellows after a puff of Philip Morris's gentle, pleasant, flavorful tobacco! How eager it makes one to share, to communicate, to extend the hand of friendship! How grateful we all are to Philip Morris for making possible this togetherness! How good not to live in the bleak pre-Philip Morris world, with every man a stranger!

The groups that people live in today (thanks to Philip Morris) vary widely in their customs. What is perfectly acceptable in one society may be outlandish in another. Take, for instance, the case of Ug Poopoomoogoo.

Ug, a Polynesian lad, grew up in an idyllic South Sea isle where the leading social event of the year was the feast of Max, the sun god. A quaint all-day ceremony was held, with tribal dancing, war chants, fat lady races, pie eating contests, and, for the grand finale, the sacrifice of two dozen maidens.

According to Ug's folkways, sacrificing maidens was quite acceptable, but when in his eighteenth year he was sent as an exchange student to the University of Wisconsin, he soon learned that Americans take a dim view of this practice-in Wisconsin, at any rate. The first twelve or thirteen maidens Ug sacrificed, he was let off with a warning. When, however, he persisted, drastic measures were taken-he was de-pledged by his fraternity. A broken man, Ug quit school and moved to Milwaukee where today he earns a meagre living as a stein.

This column is brought to you by the makers of Philip Morris Cigarettes, who are otherwise rational men. Ask for new Philip Morris in the smart new red, white and gold package.

The editorials, written by an UK alumnus, John Ed Pearce, are well-written, show detailed research, and are on the most part objective and worthy of serious consideration by all Kentuckians.

However, the Kernel does object to the editorial concerning athletics. Here Mr. Pearce loses his impartiality and almost descends to distorting facts.

The whole tone of the editorial is slanted to leave the reader with the impression that the University spends hundreds of thousands of dollars each year for athletics at the expense of the academic program.

But this is a wrong impression. Even Mr. Pearce grudgingly admits the Athletic Association is self-supporting. His entire argument is based on a rather vague paper transaction which no one but Mr. Pearce has ever considered.

He says the Athletic Association does not pay the University for educating the athletes. According to Mr. Pearce this amounts to $72,000 a year.

Supposing Mr. Pearce's figures are correct, and it does cost the University's academic program that much money each year, it is still a small amount to pay for athletics. It must be remembered that UK participates in at least eight sports-football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, tennis, golf, and It's hard to conceive that this program would cost less than $70,000, even on Mr. Pearce's purely "amateur" basis.

Mr. Pearce also complains about the expense of building the Coliseum and McClean Stadium. But again he is forced to admit that the Athletic Association pays for these structures—at a tune of $80,000 a year.

Granted the Coliseum was built primarily for basketball, but without it Lexington could not support the fine Concert Series it has now. A town must have a large auditorium to attract such groups as the New York Philharmonic and the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Mr. Pearce says the coaches have fine offices while all professors are crammed into cubbyholes. He forgets to mention that professors teaching in the new buildings, particularly Fine Arts and Journalism, have much better offices than any of the coaches.

It's time to quit treating athletics as a favorite whipping boy. Despite what Mr. Pearce says, Athletics are not responsible for all the ills of the University.

Serenades

Panhellenic, the House Presidents Council, Interfraternity Council, and the UK Social Committee have finally gotten together on the serenade problem.

For several months the change in time and regulations for serenades had alternately been praised and condemned. The reason was simple: fraternities, sororities, and other organizations affected were not clear as to the meanings of the change.

Now Pan-Hel and IFC have jointly passed resolutions asking that:

- 1. Serenades be held between the hours of 10-12 p.m.
- 2. Serenades not be counted as social functions (and thus not be required to be "signed up").
- 3. Ample notice be given the group about to be serenade. (Pan-Hel planned to issue a bulletin; IFE planned to give at least 24 hours notice.)

The resolution, if approved by the Social Committee, will clarify the serenade issue, and at the same time make it easier for groups to participate in this long-established custom.

No sorority serenades have been held this semester, and the few and scattered ones by fraternities have been marred by unfortunate incidents.

Co-ordinated action taken last week by the four regulatory groups concerned with serenades shows positive action-and should bring positive results.

Back talk

More Stylus

Dear Sirs,

In the December 16 issue of the Kernel you paid the Stylus some very unjust comments. It seems to me the Kernel is very concerned with "freedom of the press" and in the same issue that you condemned the Stylus, you ran a seven paragraph editorial on the "freedom of the press".

The Stylus was labeled "profane, obscene, and poorly written". We all realize the Stylus is a professional magazine, but neither is the Kernel a professional newspaper. It seems to me that a very narrow minded dig was taken at Stylus and it might do us all some good to read the Stylus and then think about what was said:

> Archie Fields Commerce

(Editor's note: We did read Stylus. Barf!)

The party that wins an election should try to carry out all of the planks of its platform. The United Students appear to have started doing this in SGA. But will the enthusiasm continue?

Asked why he preferred to attend a grade "Z" movie then a thought-provoking talk in the Blazer Lecture Series, one UK student gave this bright answer: "No popcorn."

Gov. A. B. Chandler and his administration have been extremely enthusiastic about UK's expansion program. Very probably the entire budget submitted by the University this year to Governor Chandler will be approved and passed on to the Legislature. This is practically unheard of. The state budget committee usually takes great delight in cutting the University's appropriation.

SGA-Pro And Con

Student Government Association ended He seemingly dropped this policy after the its fall semester of activity this week with a - third meeting. Too many committee reports scoreboard of several hits, a few runs, and needless errors.

Only the perennial campus idiot proclaims (as though he knew everything about the University) that "SGA, as usual, did nothing." Actually, SGA ground out many improvements and remedies for problems at Assembly members this semester acted upon such varied measures as the card section, press restrictions, "beef sessions" for students, spring holidays, athletic event tickets, increased UK social functions, appropriations for worthy causes, and reapportionment.

In very many cases the SGA assembly quickly and wisely handled the problems presented them. The judiciary committee, whose members gave up many otherwise "free" hours to judge student cases, functioned exceptionally well.

But there are still the errors.

SGA's president began the semester by enforcing the by-law that requires committee reports to be written out when handed in.

sons should have been discharged for three unexcused meetings. If a representative does not come to meetings, the president should inform the assembly.

The planning committee's agenda was effectively ignored for weeks. SGA needs a planned program of action for each meeting.

The public relations committee did nothing. The social committee roared off to a glorious start—and was never heard of again.

However, it is so very easy to complain. SGA deserves well-earned praise for its hits and runs of last semester, and the errors, it is hoped, will disappear in the coming months.

Short Shift

Prof. Jasper Shannon of the Political Science department recently suggested that southern politicians be examined by psychologists before they are allowed to enter a race. This is not a bad idea considering some of the peculiar statements that politicians make. But why limit it to the south? Politicians are politicians whether they are southerners or damyankees.

Several UK sororities have helped with the March of Dimes campaign this year. This is a fine project for the girls to enter into and should refute the eternal complaint that sorority and fraternity members are self-centered socialites. The Greek organizations participate in numerous charitable and community programs each year.

The prices campus organizations are charging these days for dances are ridiculous. The Newman Club has placed a $3 tab on their Mardi Gras dance tomorrow night. Considering the dance is after a ball game and will only last three hours, the price is way out of line. Undoubtedly the Newman Club is a worthy organization, but still it shouldn't try to make a fortune at the expense of the perenially penniless college student.

The Workshop

Old Proprietor Wants Administration Building

In 1965, the University of Kentucky will celebrate 100 years of top-notch educational training. And from all I can gather, it's going to be a pretty big centennial celebration.

By that time, there will be quite a few changes in the campus as we know it today. There'll be a spacious girl's dormitory located on the corner of Limestone and the Avenue of Champions. The UK Pharmacy School, now located in Louisville, will be housed in an ultra-modern building on campus.

The now-in-the-process apartments for married couples will be finished. New sorority and fraternity houses will dot surrounding areas. The proposed new physics and chemistry building will possibly be in existence. And if a few influential Kentuckians have their way, there may be a medical school on campus.

There'll be many achievements to celebrate. The people of Kentucky, the legislature, the administration, alumni, professors and students will have much of which to be proud. Yet there needs to be a crowning achievement . . . a fit-ting climax for the 1965 Centen-

We've heard talk of a new administration building to be dedicated during the centennial year. And so during the past month or so we've discussed the idea with many persons. After doing so, we have become thoroughly convinced that such a project is conceivable.

Some persons have asked, "Is there really a need for a new administration building?" By 1965 the present outmoded building will Commerce major Hatch related look somewhat like an outhouse enrollment surpassing the 10,000

Art Gallery To Feature Photography

A major invitational exhibition of contemporary photography. 'Creative Photography: 1956," can now be seen in the University Art Gallery. The exhibit opened Jan. 8, and will close Feb. 4.

Sponsored jointly by the Lexington Camera Club and the UK Department of Art, the exhibition includes photographs by many of the nation's leading photographers. Some of the photographers whose pictures are shown are Ansel Adams, Arnold Newman, Charles Sheeler, Aaron Siskind, and Edward Weston.

The exhibition was planned and organized by Van Deren Coke, exhibition chairman for the Camera Club, who invited the participating photographers.

A selected group of photographs by members of the Lexington Camera Club is also on exhibit. Members whose work are shown are Van Deren Coke, J. W. Craig, Edward Crowe, Dr. Z. S. Gierlach, Thomas Gregory, Brooks Hamilton, Walter Leet Jr., A. Z. Loney, Robert May, John Thierman, Dr. P. Van Dooren, Earl Young, and the late Dr. Charles Kavanaugh.

After closing here, the exhibit will open in Louisville, Feb. 11, and then will circulate throughout the U.S. and Canada.

WHAT, NO SALVATION?

RIGHT. NO SALVATION. For the orthodox, one of the most difficult things to understand about a Unitarian is his complete lack of interest in the idea of salvation. We do not try to save souls or to convert others to our way of thinking. We believe that men should walk uprightly, do justly, and love mercy, not for hope of future reward but because goodness is one of man's obligations to God and its own reward. Our objective is simply to try to reach those who, for whatever reason, have rejected orthodoxy, so that they may join with us in the worship of God and in the service of our fellow man.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"One open door after another"

"That's how I feel about the telephone company," says Walter D. Walker, B.E.E., University of Minnesota, '51. "When I joined the company I felt that I could go in any direction. And that's the way it's been.

"For the first six months I was given on-the-job training in the fundamentals of the telephone business - how lines are put up and equipment installed. Learning those fundamentals has really paid

"Then I had the opportunity to go to the Bell Laboratories in New Jersey. I worked on memory crystals-ferroelectric crystals-for use in digital computers. I learned how important research is to the telephone business.

"After two years I came back to Minnesota, to St. Cloud, to work in the District Plant Engineer's Office. There I made field studies of proposed construction projects and drew up plans to guide the construction crews. This combination of inside and outside work gave me invaluable experience.

"In July, 1955, I came to Minneapolis as an Engineer in the Exchange Plant Extension Engineer's Office. We do forecasting-not of the weather, but of future service needs. Using estimates of growth and economic studies, we make our plans for the years ahead. We figure out where and when new facilities will be needed to meet future growth.

"All this has been preparing me for a real future. You see, the telephone company is expanding by leaps and bounds. That's why it offers a young. man so many open doors."

Wally Walker's career is with Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. Similar career opportunities exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information regarding Bell System companies.

Young scientist works on new ways to improve metals

Today scientists and engineers face one of the toughest barriers of all - the "metal barrier." Modern technology has progressed so rapidly that today's metals can't meet the tremendous demands placed upon them. For such fields as aviation, electronics, atomic energy, present metals must be improved and new kinds of materials must be developed.

One of the young men playing a role in this new and important field is 30-year-old Dr. Roland P. Carreker, Jr.

Carreker's Work Interesting, Vital

As a research associate in the General Electric Research Laboratory's Metals and Ceramics facility, Carreker's chief concern is the improvement of metals through new processing techniques.

In his work, Dr. Carreker has dealt with such important metallurgical problems as metal failure in high-speed turbine rotors, determining the strength of pure metals from -425°F, the temperature of liquid hydrogen, to 2,800°F and economic studies of new metallurgical processes.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Carreker came to General Electric in 1947, he already knew the work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 collegegraduate employees, he is given a chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits - the individual, the company, and the country.

A sharp Kentucky Wildcat team gained sweet revenge last Saturday night by overwhelming Georgia Tech 104-51.

Tech, who stunned the basketball world last year by upsetting UK twice, appeared in for a rough night from the start. A jump and two free throws by Kentucky center, Bob Burrow, gave the Cats the lead they never lost.

Vernon Hatton and Burrow jumped the Cats to a 12-6 lead after five minutes of play. A free throw by Hatton, a jump by Phil Grawemeyer, and a crip by Jerry Bird raised the lead to 17-10.

Three straight tip-ins, two by Burrow and one by Grawemeyer, broke the game wide open and gave the Cats a 23-12 margin.

Kentucky's guards then took over. Hatton hit a crip and free throw, and Gerry Calvert hit a crip, two foul tosses plus a long shot and the Cats' lead grew to 34-16 with 4:47 remaining in the first half. With 35 seconds remaining the Cats started a freeze waiting for one last shot. Burrow tried a jump from the circle and missed, but Bird tipped it in and the Wildcats had a 42-23 halftime superiority. Kentucky, playing the entire first

WHAT would have happened if the story had been true? When rumors began circulating that Kentucky was to play a basketball team from the Soviet Union many a story developed,

We heard that the Russian team was extremely tall. Three of their starting five were over seven feet. We were told that the squad, even though amateur, was a sensation on the hardwood. But nevertheless, we understood that Adolph Rupp wanted to play them.

Well, it's a mighty good thing that the contest didn't materialize. unknown to Jerry, however. He At least it's to our favor that we didn't meet the hammer and sickle lads then.

This column is pretty certain that if AAU regulations and possibly another department had permitted, Russia would definitely have must write to the Kentuckian ofsent a cage squad to the U.S. We know that the University of Kentucky had tentatively arranged for a meeting between Russians and the Wildcats because there was a printed schedule calling for a game with the Soviet Union dated last December 13. Tickets were to be $2.25 and $1.25.

Tennessee basketball coach, Emmett Lowery, said last football will be no delay in receiving the season in Birmingham that the Russians had tried to schedule a game with his team but he didn't have an open date.

So the event was never a reality, here in Kentucky or anywhere copies before school is out in the else. It's good too.

The tilt-would have been played between the DePaul and Maryland contests. Think back and remember the condition UK's hoopsters were in at that time. It certainly wasn't good.

Now though, if Kentucky's engagements with St. Louis and Georgia Tech are any indication of the power possessed by the Cats, Rupp's horses should have little worry over a game with the Russians.

It would be interesting on our part to see such a fray now, but thank goodness we didn't have the opportunity to view such a battle last December.

RECENTLY a number of college coaches, athletic directors, and other sports officials have expressed approval and satisfaction toward the 12 foot foul lane.

The professionals have used this for some time and it has worked out as hoped; to limit the big man's domination under the basket. Now, these same college officials want to add a couple more pro rules: requiring the team on offense to shoot within a 24 second period and change positions of the teams under the basket on a foul shot. This second regulation limits foul shot tip-ins by the giants.

Both rules have found a place in pro ball. And they probably would work in college competition. But before these are added to the college basketball regulation book let's change the lousiest rule now used . . . the one and one bonus rule.

Where anyone can see benefits of this regulation I don't know. Does it limit personal fouls? Does it add to the game? Doesn't it slow down today's style of play? It's no good, it never has been, and it will never, in this fellow's eyes, be worth a plug nickel.

Rulemakers, let's go back to the old style free throw play. If the man fouled hits his shot give him two points and one shot. If he is fouled give him one toss no matter whether the first gratis throw is good or not. Keep the ball in play!
